A general opinion prevails that no fluctuations of consequence will occur as regards the value of cotton yarns or goods. This opinion is so generally entertained that it is very probable it may prove correct. If, on the one hand, the American cotton crop is likely to realize everything which could be desired by the consumer, the consumption is, on the other, very large. It is estimated by many at about 40,000 bags per week of all kinds of cotton in the United Kingdom. There are other circumstances likely to neutralize in some measure the effect of the large cotton crop—namely, the almost certain expectation of an easy money market, and rather lower prices for corn.

Advices from Paris of June 2 say:—
The settlement in the rente went off heavily at the Bourse, to-day. Reports were only to be effected at very high rates, owing, it is said, to arbitrations between the rente and other securities. The threes fell 60c. for cash, and 30c. for nerount, closing at 74f. 45c. and 74f. 60c. For account they were at one time as low as 74f. 10c. but the price of reports suddenly gave way within the last half hour, and caused a partial recovery. Credit mobilier was pretty well sustained. But little business was done in railways.

The accounts from Russia state that the demand for exports at St. Petersburg is moderately active, but that the import markets are rather dull. Hence the rate of exchange shows a continued tendency to become less favorable for England. Steam communication having been re-established, business is considered to have returned to its old channels, and there are as yet no reports of any mpending changes either as regards commerce or poli-The private letters make no allusion to the probability of a loan, and it is inferred that the recent state ments on the subject were at least premature, if not unof 350,249,363 kilometres, (five-eighths of a mile,) the medium tariff per ton and per kilometre is 6-53c. For coals the tariff is much lower. The North Railway transports coals from the Belgian frontier at the fixed and uniform tariff of 35;c. per ton and per kilometre. On other railroads the tariff is fixed at from 5c. to 10c. It is worthy of remark that the competition of railroads has not affected the canals, which display a considerable increase in their returns. The gross profits of the Northern Railway in 1855 were 51,000,000 fr. The expenses of administration amounted to 18,054,000fr., or 37.4 per cent on the carnings. This railroad possessed, in 1855 it possessed 226 engines and 4,639 carriages and trucks. In 1855 it possessed 226 engines and 8,523 carriages and trucks. During the last six years the revenue of the Northern Railroad has increased 116 per cent.
